25 Years

Something to Celebrate

Soccer team members celebrate a win over Winthrop during a Big South Conference game.

Maria Starnes and Malissa Ayrán express enthusiasm over the scoring of a touchdown.

Twenty-five years ago there was a beginning, the realization of a dream that was the Baptist College at Charleston. Over the past quarter-century, much has happened to shape the lives of all who have passed through the portals of our beloved school. The individuals we have encountered, the lessons we have learned, the events we have witnessed have all combined to give us "Something To Celebrate."

Something To Celebrate

The highlight of the 1988-89 school year is the celebration of Baptist's 25th Anniversary. A pageantry of accomplishments is part of BCC's history.

Through the years there have been good times and bad. Indeed, the good times far outweigh the bad ones; the victories mask the defeats; the laughter dries the tears. This silver anniversary instills in our hearts the joy of celebration.

Making Friends

Research has shown that the first six weeks of the semester are the most important in the lives of a new student. With this in mind, the student services staff plans activities to smooth the passage from home to college life.

Orientation activities introduce all new students, whether freshman or transfers, to BCC regulations, traditions and fellow students.

Orientation Committee members and Big Brothers and Big Sisters work to make new students feel at ease in their new surroundings. "Orientation is to help new students adapt to college life, to meet their fellow classmates and to make the transition easier between high school and college," says Ann Welty, director of student activities.

The program is designed to show students that college is not all academics, said Welty. Orientation demonstrated what Baptist College has to offer in the way of extra-curricular activities.

Academic concerns are also addressed during the first few weeks. New students were required to attend a Study Skills Workshop which focused on developing basic study skills, and they met with professors at the faculty/student ice cream social.

Activities such as Playfair, the beach party and Dorm Wars encouraged students to develop friendships and interact with members of their own class.

A special emphasis was placed on getting commuters involved in life at BCC. A commuter picnic was planned for commuters and their families. Attendance doubled from the year before.

With so many activities, students don't have time to be homesick. "Orientation Week made me feel right at home," said Holly Roberts, a freshman from Walterboro.

Classic Events

Bored? Nothing to do? Let student activities help you out.

Under the leadership of Ann Welty, the student activities office plans many projects to keep the students active, involved, and happy. If a student is having problems finding fun and exciting things to do, the student activities office is the place to go.

A vast array of events is planned. Activities include mall runs, midnight bowling, skating, concerts, coffee houses . . . the list goes on and on. Student activities even has a hand in Orientation week.

Long before a school year begins, the student activities staff is hard at work thinking of fun endeavors for students to participate in. This year, for instance, teams were organized to play powderpuff football on Spirit Day. 1988 also marked the return of the outdoor movie, a kind of drive-in that you have to walk to.

Along with the new events, student activities still has the classic old stand-bys.

There's never a dull moment when a caravan of students move out for skating or midnight bowling. Midnight Bowling has been classified as a hilarious rendition of the Pro-Bowlers Tour, and skating, well, one could only imagine what happens when a bunch of college students put wheels on their feet.

All in all, the student activities office works hard to keep boredom out of the lives of the Baptist College students.

Renea Glenn joins in a game of volleyball at the commuter picnic.

New Journey

Before an overflow crowd, 214 recipients received degrees at the May 21 graduation ceremony.

Guest speaker was S.C.
Baptist Convention President Jimmie E. Harley. Harley also received the honorary doctor of letters degree.

Charles Alexander Harvin, III, class of 1972, received the honorary doctor of laws degree.

Harley challenged the graduates to adopt positive qualities in their lifestyle and to love others. “We live in a world where people are pleading for men and women of character, integrity and honesty. Our lives should be all that we say they are,” he said.

Two graduates were recognized for special achievement. Christy Scott Stephens received the John A. Barry Scholar Award which is presented to the graduating senior achieving the highest scholastic ratio and who, in the judgment of the faculty,

Sondra G. Sessions received the Myrtle E. Ham-

Sherri Crow, senior class president, delivered her final address to the class of 1988.
“By God’s grace, walk

portunity and make a difference in the world,” she said.

College Seal: An indigo band is inscribed with gold letters reading: "The Baptist College at Charleston" and the year, 1964. Within the circle are Greek words, which interpreted read: "GO YE THEREFORE AND MAKE DISCIPLES OF ALL NATIONS." Small letters give the Biblical reference Matthew 28:19. Inside the circle are The Book, symbolizing truth; The Lamp, symbolizing the light of learning; and The Cross, symbol of the sacrifice which made all wisdom possible.

College Colors: Indigo blue was chosen because indigo was a primary industry in the earliest days of the history of the land on which the college is built. The deep, rich gold color is called "Pirates' Gold," and was chosen to carry out the Buccaneer theme ... (the "gentleman" pirate being the college's athletic name and symbol).

City of Charm

In a world full of commercialism and high-tech, high-rise cities, it is a challenge to find a city that has preserved its gleaming history. Charleston is one such city.

Amidst the large high-rises like hotels and the many hospitals, you can always find buildings that beam with charm.

An autumn stroll along the Battery will allow the personal charm of the city to reach out to you. The old restored houses add so much beauty to the waterfront. To spend an afternoon on the Battery watching the boats in the harbor is a perfect way to forget the stress of academic life.

One of the most fascinating parts of Charleston is the old market. Down at the market you can find so many things that are associated only with the Charleston Area. The ladies who sit outside all day long and make the sweet grass baskets add a certain touch that can't be found in any other city. At the end of the market is where you find the produce stands. Take a stroll through this section of the market and be assured that you will be talked into some 13 bean soup, a local dish made of a variety of beans and peas.

The old churches downtown are some of the oldest in the United States and their bells still toll the hour.

The city's beauty is enhanced by the many cultural arts events that are presented on an annual basis. In late May and early June, Charleston hosts the annual Spoleto Festival. The festival, one of the largest in the country, highlights drama, classical music, literature and art. Spoleto is known world-wide and has performers and spectators from all over the world.

"The city's beauty is enhanced by the many cultural arts events that are presented on an annual basis."

Boone Hall Plantation, used in many movies, is just one of Charleston's historical sights.

The historic homes along the Battery are a favorite of college students as well as tourists.

Ladies make sweet grass baskets at the market daily.

The Omni Hotel and Shops at Charleston Place are a favorite attraction of college students.

Life at BCC

Life as a Baptist College student can be somewhat stressful, but all in all it's pretty exciting.

The transition to college from home can be a scary experience, but the friends you make, and the responsibilities you have make it all worthwhile.

"I like the free time and the freedom I have," says Ervin Jones, a senior. "I thrive on the stress."

Most students like the freedom of being on their own and making their own decisions.

College students never get the proper amount of sleep. They have things to do that keep them up until late at night. Besides studying, which comprises a lot of their time, they find time to watch movies on VCRs together and have pizza parties.

College students eat out a lot too. Some favorite places of BCC students to eat are Carey Hilliards, Applebees, Taco Bell and of course, Burger King. California Dreamin' is becoming a popular place to go.

Stephen Strickland, freshman, says, "I like the close contact with fellow students. The friends I've made are the best, and most importantly I've grown spiritually."

Sheri Spotts and Eric Brassard study for mid-terms in Littlejohn.

After Classes

While some students are having fun after classes, a majority of students have work study jobs. This enables a student to work and pay for his education at the same time.

Many students have jobs off campus which take up a lot of time, but it gives them great experience as well as pocket money.

This year the Resident Assistants are really becoming involved with the students and are helping to make living quarters more comfortable.

"I like the freedom of not having a curfew," says freshman Sharon Grosso, "And being able to make my own decisions and having a sense of responsibility."

On the weekends, many students go home. There are still a lot of students who stay on campus. Some students do neither. They go on road trips to other colleges to visit friends or travel to concerts.

Many students at BCC are involved in sports. This keeps them busy and on the road.

Life at Baptist College is never dull; you can always go out no matter what the time may be and find something to do.

Knowing Truth

At BCC college life means more than just studying or having fun with friends; for many students it means learning to walk closer with God. Thus spiritual life plays a very large role on campus. Rick Brewer, director of campus ministries, said his office tries to support a "Christian Environment by providing opportunities for evangelistic equipping through a variety of campus ministries organizations and projects." These ministries include the Baptist Student Union, Campus Crusade for Christ and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. BSU is the only Southern Baptist Ministry designed especially for college students. Todd Horton, BSU president, said, "BSU strives to serve BCC by serving God." He also said BSU is trying to give BCC a Christian environment without alienating itself from non-Christians but instead "by reaching out to them in love." Crusade for Christ is an international organization dedicated to soul winning and helping send out summer missionaries. Fellowship of Christian Athletes seeks to reach athletes and coaches as well as fellow students for Christ. These organizations have a great impact on the lives of many students. Kellie Crawford said because of the many Christian organizations on campus she has grown greatly in her relationship with God. "Because of these, I have learned more about God's plan for my life." Polly Stone said, "Being involved in various Christian activities such as BSU, Elijah, BSU drama club, and vespers have really meant a lot to me and helped me in my spiritual growth." Tracey Booth said, "During the last year I've been at Baptist College, I've experienced a closeness with God that I never had before. I feel that this is because God is using this college's atmosphere to draw people to Him and to strengthen them in their walks." "The spiritual life on this campus is great," Darcus Jones said. "Going to school here will help me build my Christian walk." Earle Readett challenged everyone (including himself) "to reach out to those who seem unreachable because until we do they may never see the Truth that Christ has for us all." BCC strives to serve God in exciting ways!

Today's Fads

From year to year, different trends and fashions make up a large part of our social life. Clothes, music and a lot of other things differ from year to year as does each individual's taste. This year, many different styles have been popping up, and they all look unique. Turtlenecks are very popular worn under cardigans, pullover sweaters and button-down collars.

Dirty bucks or your common suede shoes are a must this year. Not only are they comfortable, but they match everything. Sebagos are also worn by a large number of college students. Scarves are definitely coming back in style. They can be worn several ways. There are many prints and fabrics to choose from.

Boxer shorts are worn not only by guys but by the girls too. There are so many styles to wear. Girls like to wear them under a pair of soccer shorts. Guys wear them under shorts also. If you don't feel like dressing up, then you can wear the most popular outfit worn by college students everywhere, the original t-shirt or sweatshirt and sweatpants. The sweat-suit is the most popular outfit. It's worn not only by athletes but by everyone else.

Several Baptist College

students expressed their opinions on what they thought was really in style..

"The classic look is definitely coming back in, especially Susan Bristle Sweaters," says Joie Shaffner, freshman.

"Anything with Mickey Mouse on it," said Clifford Honeycutt, freshman.

"The basic bluejean and T-shirt. I wouldn't be caught dead in it though. I'm a trend setter, not a trend follower," said Chris Jones, freshman.

"Union Bay clothes are definitely popular, said Bruce Moyer, senior.

Jenn Lara, Christy Farris and Sharon Grosso sport the latest in bumming attire.

Physically Fit

Not all students interested in physical fitness are on a varsity athletic team. Many students find other areas on campus in which to become involved athletically.

Intramurals provide students a chance to compete against their peers in an organized environment. Favorites among students are flag football, basketball and softball. Other attractions are hoops 50, checkers and horse shoes. Co-ed teams competed in tennis and pool.

Club football, in its fourth year, has attracted much interest on campus and in the community. This season, the team faced the toughest schedule yet. Only three club teams appeared on the schedule. The rest of the schedule consisted of junior college, NAIA, NCAA Division II and junior varsity teams.

The club team remains optimistic that the team will move to division play or join a club league. The campus has enjoyed the competitions on fall Saturday afternoons.

The evening before the UNC-Wilmington game, student activities sponsored a spirit day powderpuff game. The game proved an enormous success with students turning out as players and cheerleaders.

The Big Dawgs, coached by Ronnie Wright and Johnnie Looney were victorious 21-7. Shannon Varner made one touchdown and Tonia Wilkins ran for two touchdowns.

Maria Starnes made the Cat Mamas' touchdown. The Cat Mamas were coached by Kenneth Pruitt. Steve Crittendon, Keith Darnell, and Michael Harvell.

Life's Lessons

In his recent best seller, The Closing of the American Mind, Allen Bloom states his case for a liberal arts education. He claims that students who have a liberal arts background have the greatest moral and intellectual effect on the nation.

Baptist College seeks to offer students the kind of background which will equip them in their career and personal lives for many years to come.

"I didn't have a liberal arts education in mind when I chose BCC," said Patricia Moraska. "I plan to go into teaching and plan to extend my education to a master's degree and possibly a doctorate."

David Starnes is trying to get a well-rounded education because he doesn't know specifically what he'll be doing in the years to come. Starnes chose a liberal arts education because "the level and personal contact of the professors with students is more personalized than at state schools."

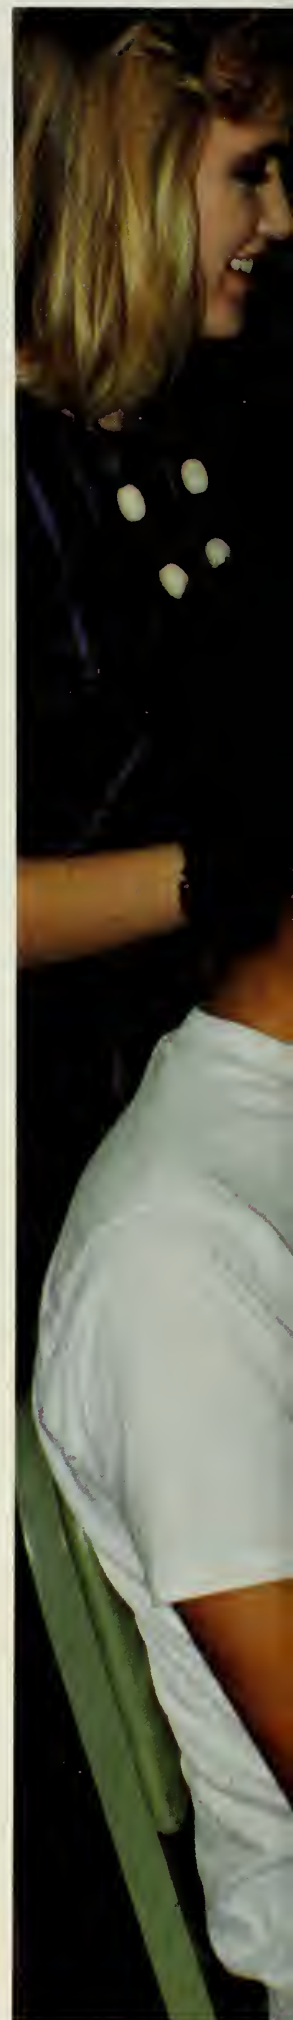

Sherri Mathis feels that God called her into the music ministry and also to pursue a liberal arts education.

She believes BCC is teaching her a sense of responsibility and discipline which will benefit her throughout her life.

The benefits of education extend beyond book learning. Students acquire communication skills which will be beneficial in all types of business. Learning to get along with all types of people and adapt to a changing environment are some of the most useful aspects of a college education.

Michelle Sheedy, Michael Lopez and Evelyn Gingiss review their program in the computer lab.

Students find computers helpful when doing homework and research.

Monica Baldwin, Kristina Tudor and Stacy Bryant discuss their notes before class begins.

Patti Moraska finds a quiet place to write her term paper.

After Hours

Students who attend Evening College (about one-third of the student body) have discovered it is never too late to earn a college degree. The Evening College is designed to meet the needs of working adults who want to advance their careers or change them completely. These students have the opportunity to study business administration (management, computer information systems and marketing), economics, English and religion by taking classes after 5 p.m. Regular Evening College classes meet once per week, and you can take up to four classes per semester.

In order to make evening students feel they belong, the college has established a separate student advisory council. The advisory council acts as liaison between the college and the evening students. The council held a social gathering for students and professors at the first of the year.

About 125 of the 600 evening students are enrolled in accelerated courses which means they carry a full-time course load.

"I decided to come to the evening school in order to further my professional development. I have a Master's Degree in Education, but I want to keep my credentials updated and possibly explore other career opportunities in the future," said Donna H. Dotson, an intervention specialist at the Berkeley County Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

Janey Bowman said "I was working as a classroom aide and decided I wanted to go into education." She is majoring in early childhood and elementary education.

Beth Allen said she prefers to attend evening class because the atmosphere is much more relaxed. "Evening College allows me to maintain full-time status and work too. I should graduate from Baptist in May 1989 with a degree in English and a minor in education."

"I decided to come to Baptist College because of the accelerated night courses," said David Morris. "I'm trying to get into the officers program in the Navy, and I need a bachelor's degree for that. Even though that is the reason for returning to school, it has also become a personal thing just to say I accomplished something I set out to do."

Delene Petusin said, "The reason I went back to school was I had an employer tell me he could see by my resume I was overpaid. I picked Baptist College for the ease of getting to and from classes from work."

ON

campus, clubs and organizations play a major role in the lives of Baptist College students. Each club through the years has held its place in the spotlight through various on-campus and community service projects. The friendly rivalries are evident among the service fraternities and sororities, but if a need arises, it is certain that it will be taken care of. The religious organizations are an important part of weekly schedules. These organizations provide students support through Christian beliefs and also provide students with a time of fellowship with friends. As we enter our next 25 years, organizations will continue to grow in numbers, but the purpose of providing services and opportunities for the campus and community will remain the same.

In its fourth season, the club football team faced its most difficult schedule yet.

The schedule included Knoxville College (NCAA Div. II), Clemson Club, North Greenville Jr. College, Furman J.V., UNC-W Club, Coastal Carolina Club, U. of Georgia J.V. and Gardner Webb (NAIA).

Despite a disappointing 2-6 finish, the seniors are proud of what the team has achieved. "I feel that we've made a name for Baptist College. We've accomplished what we set out to do, and that was to bring in new students," said Lee Taylor.

"I hope we've started something that will continue on and will develop into something bigger than club football," said Greg McKenzie. Impressive victories over Clemson and UNC-W helped ease the pain of on-the-road losses.

Baptist compiled 256 yards of total offense to defeat the Clemson Club 21-0. The offense got 12 first downs, and the defense held Clemson to only six first downs and just 106 yards of total offense.

The team defeated the UNC-W Club 35-6. Markus White, Alston Freeman, Deron Rogers, Doug Smith, and Greg McKenzie each contributed to the score with touchdowns.

Bo Blanton, in his third year as head coach, was assisted by Bob Pinney, defensive coordinator and newcomer Jerry Jacobs. Chuck Welty served the team as club coordinator.

Junior Marshals

Junior marshals are chosen on the basis of academic scholarship, exemplary character and leadership ability and represent the ideals and principles for which the College stands. Marshals serve as hosts and hostesses at special functions. Marshals are: Richard W. Anderson of Ladson, Debra L. Barrows of Hanahan, Kevin W. Futrell of Hanahan, Cara L. Grimm of McKeesport, Penn., James M. Harris of Summerville, Debbye K. Holman of Summerville, Rhonda L. Lever of Summerville and Richard Torrance, Jr. of Charleston Heights.

The history of academic dress dates back to the 14th century. The order of procession is the grand marshal (mace bearer), the color guard, the program participants, the trustees, the faculty, and the candidates for degrees, each group led by a marshal adorned with a colorful sash.

ATHLETICS

WE

began our athletic program in the fall of 1965. In that first season, the Buccaneers competed on the NAIA level with three men's intercollegiate sports. The Bucs competed on the NAIA level for nine years before making the move to the NCAA Division I level in 1973. Today the men's and women's programs have seven intercollegiate sports each. Each program competes in the Big South Conference, chartered in 1983. The Buccaneers and Lady Bucs were charter members. Athletic program highlights include capturing the first-ever conference championship of any kind in the Big South Conference, when the Buccaneer cross country team captured the cross country championship in October of 1984. The Buccaneer basketball team won the first two conference basketball championships, and the baseball, soccer, and tennis teams have all captured runner-up trophies. On the women's side, the volleyball team has captured two championships, and the softball team has won one title and was runner-up in another.

Squad Advances To Postseason Play

Coach John Devereux's second season at Baptist provided outstanding results. He only lost two starters from the 1987 team.

This experienced squad was the first BCC soccer team to qualify for postseason play. They finished as runners-up in the Big South tournament.

Behind the leadership of the senior players, the Bucs were able to work together for their best season ever. The veterans finished with an overall record of 8-10-1.

"Our team has many individualistic players, but this year we seemed to mature more and blend as a unit," said senior Andy Guzman. The schedule was particularly kind to the Bucs. They played five of their six conference games at home. Being at home for the conference games was a big boost to the team.

Senior forward Tim Tyler was selected to the Big South All-Conference team. Four players were selected to the All-Tournament team: midfielders Doug Kifer and Ken West, forward Tim Tyler and goalie Rob Byers.

Coach Devereux will more than likely be rebuilding his team in the 1989 season. He is leading the Baptist soccer program in a new direction. He certainly will have no problem finding seven talented players to replace his graduates.

Lady Bucs Take First In Conference

The 1988 volleyball season brought the Lady Bucs their second Big South Championship in three years. "It was a great accomplishment for us to win two out of three years," said Coach Amir Khaledi.

The Lady Bucs won their first championship in 1986. In 1987 they finished in third place with a 14-17 record.

The season was filled with big victories including a win over Va. Tech of the Metro Conference. Even bigger victories were wins over Radford and Winthrop in the Big South tournament. The Lady Bucs finished with a 22-9 record.

Besides winning the conference title, the volleyball team claimed many other honors. Khaledi was named Big South Coach of the Year. Ann Thomas, Angie Cunningham and Laura Skipper were named to the All-Big South team. Skipper and Thomas were also named to the All-Tournament team.

Not only did the Lady Bucs have to battle tough opponents, but they also had to fight injury. Three of the team's starters were hurt during the season. Dorothy Robson was out for three weeks and made it back to help the Lady Bucs in the tournament.

The future is looking bright for Baptist College volleyball. Four of the six starters will be back for the 1989 season. "We should be a solid team next year," says Khaledi.

"We've really worked hard, and it's paid off. Working together as a team really means a lot. We're very supportive of each other," said Sheri Spotts.

Cross Country Looks To Bright Future With Young Team

Despite a late start, Coach Jim Settle had high hopes for his 1988 cross country squad. When school began, the team had less than two weeks to prepare for its first meet. Conditioning plays a big role in cross country, and the short period of preparation time affected the Buccaneer's performance in early meets.

Experience is an important factor also. Both the men's and women's teams were short on experience in the 1988 season. However, the season gave the teams an opportunity to work on strength and endurance.

All of the members of the men's squad were sophomores. The women's team consisted of two freshmen, two sophomores and one senior. Because of the youth factor, Settle is looking ahead to continued success.

The team has a very promising future. The young squad showed improvement week after week during their season.

The women were led by Susan Dixon and Darlene Johnson. Dixon, a freshman, was the Bucs' highest finisher in each meet. The men's team followed the leadership of Nathan Dowd and Dennis Humphries.

"The team worked together to accomplish a lot," said Johnson. "We came together as a unit."

Highlights of the season included Dixon's first place finish in the Bulldog Invitational on the 5K course, and Dowd's seventh place finish in the Bulldog Invitational. The women's squad finished the season with a third place standing in the Big South Conference. The men's team finished fourth in the Conference.

Seasoned Players And Recruits Build Team

As Gary Edwards' inaugural season came to an end, he found his Runnin' Bucs in second place in the Big South with a record of 17-12. For a team that was supposed to be rebuilding, these marks were quite impressive.

The team picked to finish last in the conference was a surprise to many of its opponents.

Two important players graduated from the squad, Oliver Johnson and Dee Riley. Johnson was the Big South's leading rebounder. Riley was the Buc's all-around player and a definite threat from three-point range.

However, Edwards did not let these losses get the best of him. Through a fine recruiting job, Edwards brought some new talent to the Buccaneer ranks. Donald Fogle, Corey Neal and Luther Tutt have all made a big impact during their first season at BCC.

The returning players have also worked hard in contributing their talents to the team. The Bucs were led by seniors Heder Ambrose, Mike Acuff and Brad Dobbels.

"The team is like a family," states Mike Acuff. "Everyone does his part and contributes a lot to the team. There's a lot of potential; we just need the time to develop it."

Early in the season the Bucs worked together to claim bragging rights for the Charleston area. Baptist defeated the College of Charleston 76-72.

The win over the Cougars was the highlight of a very hard season for the Bucs. A disastrous road trip and the tough conference schedule took their toll on the team.

All things considered, the best is yet to come. On Election Day, N. Charleston voters moved to build a 10-12,000 seat coliseum. One day, BCC basketball will be one of the main attractions there.

Women Bravely Face Tough Season

The Lady Bucs started their season with many new faces, including a brand new coach. Jody Gilden replaced Carol Meegan, who left BCC after her first season. Other new faces included four freshmen and two junior college transfers.

The Lady Bucs finished their 1988 campaign with an 8-19 record. They lost six players including three starters. Only four players returned for the 1988-89 season. The newcomers were counted upon for immediate production.

Any coach in the NCAA will agree that the troubles of a rebuilding year can be hard on all of the team members. The team started off on the wrong foot with a tough schedule. Not only did they play a difficult Big South schedule, they also had to worry about non-conference foes such as Furman, College of Charleston, Georgetown and Georgia Southern.

Early in the year, the team fell to a dismal 0-13 record. Although the season was bleak for the Lady Bucs, the newcomers and the seniors worked together to stick it out.

Seniors Yolanda Brown, Jean Fox, Joy Galloway and

Traci Kovac provided the leadership and support to hold a team together. "If you ever have a chance to play on a collegiate team, take the opportunity," says Traci Kovac. "It is an experience you will never forget."

New members Angela Gordon, Tresa Norman, Wendy Ulmer, Wendy Owens, Angie Wilson, and Lisa Tiedemann will all be back next year to give it another shot.

Despite their poor record, the ladies played with hearts of champions. They should be admired for their tremendous efforts.

Futrell Returns To Head Buccaneers

Jamie Futrell, a 1987 BCC grad, returned to campus to take the helm as head baseball coach. As a former member of the team, Futrell is well acquainted with the Buccaneer baseball program.

"I have a lot of respect for him coming out and coaching some of the players he played with," said Steve Strickland.

The team finished the 1988 season as Big South Conference runner-ups with an overall record of 26-16. A highlight of the season was beating the University of South Carolina twice. Mike Olean remembers the game against Coastal Carolina in the Conference tournament best. "We were supposed to get killed, but we beat them," he said.

In recent years, the Buccaneers have enjoyed success on the field despite going up against much larger programs. Team members are looking forward to a new season under a new coach.

"We will have a successful season with Coach Futrell," predicts Olean.

Months of preparation are behind each spring team when they finally enter competition. Maintaining motivation is a task for coaches and players alike. "As a freshman I haven't started games yet, so it has been difficult with practice," says Strickland. He adds, "It just makes you work harder."

Good extension puts power behind the Bucs' pitching.

Lady Bucs Take First In Big South Conference

The Lady Bucs softball team faced its toughest schedule ever in the 1988 season. The Lady Bucs were able to capture the Conference Championship, splitting two games with Coastal Carolina, bringing to a close the Lady Bucs' third season with an overall record of 32-15.

The Lady Bucs softball team was the only Baptist team to capture The Big South title in the 1987-88 season.

The team ranked high in several categories in the NCAA Division I national statistics. The Buccaneers finished first in the nation in runs scored with an eight-runs per game average. They also finished second in team batting with a .329 average.

Individually, Dori Beach led the nation in RBIs with 59, while Mandi Merritt finished 22nd in batting with a .400 average.

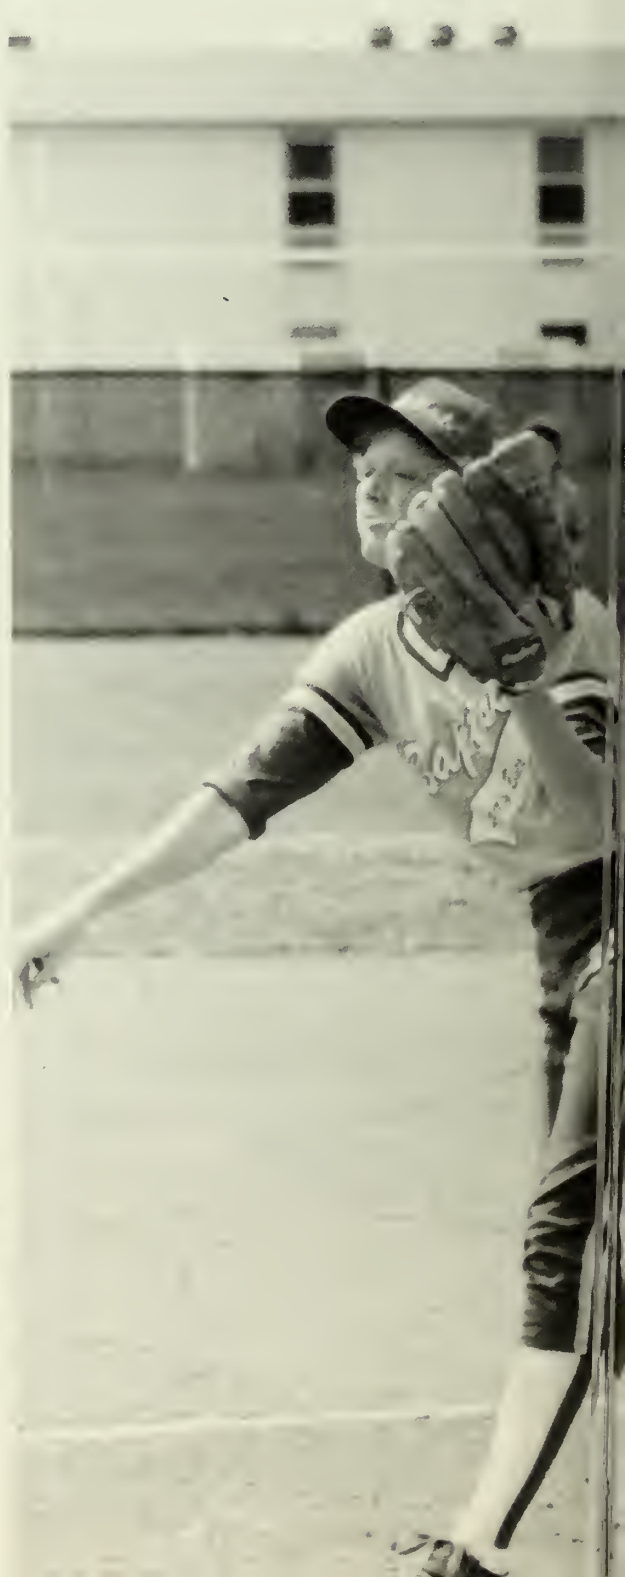

Teammates look forward to the 1989 season. Senior, Amanda Merritt said, "I think the team will do extremely well if we keep our attitudes in the right place. We play well as a team if we keep our problems with each other off the field." Newcomer Tracy Bloomberg said, "I'm looking forward to playing with the softball team. Everyone is really nice. I'm also learning how to budget my time with practice and classes. The competition is greater in college than high school, so we will have to work harder."

Track Team Keeps Successful Record

The men's and women's track team had an impressive season in 1988. The women's team finished the season with a 4-0 record, and the men's team had a 5-2 record.

With the track team not competing in the Big South Conference, they have to compete in meets with much larger schools such as Florida State, Ohio State, Georgia and USC.

This is quite a challenge for our teams, but they pull through with flying colors. Brian Wilkinson reminisces about such a meet, "It was the Gatorade Track Classic, and I was competing in the high hurdles against competitors from Florida State and Ohio State. There was probably two inches of rain on the track, and it was still pouring. I came in fourth place and beat a guy from Florida State, and that's when I realized I was really good," he said.

When mistakes are made, the team just laughs and puts the mishaps behind them, and this is what gives them the winning spirit. Darlene Johnson shares one such incident, "I was running the 800-yard run and was on the last 200 yards and something in my body asked me why I was doing this, and my body said, I don't know, so I stopped."

On college campuses athletics and academics have to maintain an equal balance, and at times this can be a difficult task to accomplish. "It becomes especially hard during exams. You spend three hours at practice, and that only leaves you a little bit of time to study. As you become an upperclassman and the term papers pile up, it becomes even tougher," says Colleen Lenahan.

The track program has combined these aspects into a winning formula, and they expect a great season this year.

Bucs Continue To Progress

After a successful season in 1988, the men's tennis team is setting out to accomplish the same goal and then exceed it under the direction of Skip Scarpa.

Finishing the season with a 17-13 record and the Big South Conference runner-up trophy in hand, the team returned home with the best tennis record in the school's history.

The team is as strong as they were last year, but they will face a tougher schedule. Chuck Stiles, a transfer student from Anderson College, stresses the key factor if the team is to succeed. "We have a tough schedule, and we have the talent to do well," he says. "It's a matter of the team coming together and deciding to do it."

The women's outlook was grim at the end of last season, but there is light at the end of the tunnel. Scarpa has recruited two national champions from Europe and Africa and the number one ranked U.S. junior college player.

With the addition of these players and the returning team members, Scarpa expects this to be the best women's team Baptist College has ever had. "We have a good team with great improvement from last season," adds Nancy Rodgers.

Both teams combined represent five continents which is a remarkable number of international students. With talented additions to both teams, Scarpa hopes to bring home both Big South Championship trophies.

Women's Team Added To Golf Program

The golf program at BCC made some changes this season. Baptist College, along with two other Big South schools, has started a women's golf team.

Under the watchful eye of head coach John Devereux and assistant coach Jim Barrier, the women's team hopes to leave a lasting impression with the Big South Conference in its first season of play.

The women's team will meet several schools in matches and will participate in tournaments. Tournaments will be in Charleston, Rock Hill and in North Carolina. The culmination of the season will be the Big South tournament at Prestwick Golf Course in Myrtle Beach, the nation's golfing capital.

The men's team, also under the coaching supervision of Devereux and Barrier, is expecting a winning season with the return of top players Tod Cox, Dale Peterson and Todd Tracy.

Peterson, a day student with a family, faces problems most college athletes don't even think about. Spending so much away from his family is difficult. "If you have an understanding family, you can do it," he says.

Riding last season's 7-3 match record and a 19-32 tournament record, the men's team is hoping to clench a Big South tournament victory. "With our top three players returning from last season, we can look forward to a great season," says Coach Devereux.

Squad Leads To Victory

When the Buccaneers come on the court, they are greeted by enthusiastic support generated in large part by the cheerleaders.

Under the direction of first year sponsor Brita Edwards, the squad has worked hard to develop a new image. "We work well as a team, and we have a lot of talent," says Tessa Spencer. "All the hard work and practice is starting to pay off."

Edwards increased the size of the squad, recruiting members to represent all BCC groups. In addition, she has provided instruction and stressed safety and dedication to the team.

"We have a lot of potential, and it takes a lot of hard work," said Maria Starnes. "We've put in some long hours. We've had a few dropouts, but nevertheless, we still work together as a team."

Adding to the sense of teamwork has been the purchase of an up-to-date costume for the College mascot. Cheerleaders raised funds along with many campus organizations and individuals to purchase the new "Buccaneer." His presence sparked new interest in the student body with the celebration of "pirate night" at the College of Charleston game.

Cheerleaders not only have to have enthusiasm, they must work on athletic strength and endurance as well. The squad's practices are very similar to the other athletic teams.

"When Shawn, Wendell, Britt and I found out the cheerleading squad needed some guys, we decided to go out because it would be a good way to meet some girls," said Brian Wilkinson. The new recruits quickly learned of the hard work they were in for. "We've put in a lot of time and effort. We had a lot of cooperation and support from the guys," said Christie Callahan.

The long hours have paid off with a squad on which students can be proud to be a member.

IN

1965, the first class, consisting of 588 students, arrived on campus. Enrollment at BCC has more than tripled and is now rapidly approaching 2000. Over the past 25 years, the College's size, curriculum and campus have grown tremendously, but the students still share the same spirit, and yes, even many of the same problems that the first students experienced. The students continue to be devoted supporters of sports and clubs. Coping with residence life and being away from home is an experience that plagues and inspires most college students. However, there is still room for growth, and the College's long range goal is to increase enrollment to 2,500 students by the year 2004 and provide enough residence hall space to house 900 students once renovations are complete.

ACADEMICS

IN

1965, 16 full and part-time faculty members began the history of academic instruction at Baptist College. At present, BCC has 59 full-time faculty members. In addition, five professional librarians, three Air Force ROTC faculty members, and adjunct faculty enhance the learning process. Innovative programs such as evening college, the bachelor of technology degree, and the computer literacy requirement have brought Baptist College much recognition in the community. A graduate studies program in middle school education was accredited in 1986. The program was expanded in 1988 to include elementary and secondary education.

President Hunter

Dr. Jairy C. Hunter, Jr., president, has worked long and hard to build a firm financial base for Baptist College. The College's endowment has increased from $800,000 in 1984 to about $1.6 million today. Recently, Hunter has focused his energies on academics. He has developed a plan which calls for growth in five areas. Programs and classes will reflect attention to values and ethics, communication, wellness, leadership development and service to college and community. A commitment to computer literacy for students and faculty has increased the value of BCC graduates in the job market. Agreements with state technical colleges are strengthening the bachelor of technology degree. These programs demonstrate Hunter's commitment to providing an education which will serve students as they take their place in the community.

Dr. Jairy C. Hunter, Jr.
President

New and returning students share summer experiences with Dr. Hunter at the President's Reception.

Dr. Hunter waits patiently as Kandie Smith sees how her glasses look on him.

Rev. Ted Robertson, Dr. Hunter, Mrs. Peggy Sineath and Coach Gary Edwards were the winners of the first President's Cup gold tournament.

years ago, there was only the hope of providing a Christian alternative in higher education in the Low Country. The founders purchased land 16 miles from the city limits of Charleston which today affords a spacious, secure campus with ample room for future growth. The school once considered isolated from the city is now in the center of the Greater Charleston Area. As Baptist College reaches its 25th year, the campus and the surrounding community are still growing larger everyday. The growth in the area has provided students with a variety of entertainment, places to shop and eat.

Friendship

SHUTTERSTOCK

This year at BCC started out with a bang,
I came back to college and met the old gang.
There were many new faces I hadn't seen before,
The new freshman class, who could have asked for more?

We all had "something to celebrate" this year,
As the 25th Anniversary spread joyful cheer.
Classes began, and boy were they hard,
All that homework made us wish for a sympathy card.

Exams were worse than the SATs
By the time we were through, we were down on our knees.
There was always something to do, no matter what time of the day,
It stayed that way from September till May.

The college had many functions in honor of the 25th year,
The Charleston Symphony Orchestra, Grace Freeman, and even Larnelle Harris were here!
There were games to go to all during the year,
It was great watching players play and cheerleaders cheer.

The friends we've made, and the things we've done together,
Make up the memories that we'll cherish forever.
The day finally arrived that each senior had waited for,
Just when they thought they couldn't take any more.

Graduation is here; they're walking down the aisle,
Minds are filled with wonderful thoughts, and each face wears a smile.
Diplomas are received; it's finished and done,
Now it's time to go out and have some fun.

Out into the real world they go,
What will happen now they don't even know,
But I heard them say,
As they faded out of sight,
"Farewell my college family, good-bye my dear friends,
My wonderful years at BCC have come to an end.
My things are all ready, and my car is all packed,
I'm leaving this college, and I'm not coming back."

Something To Celebrate

Putting together a yearbook is not all fun and games. It takes a lot of hard work and effort on everyone's part for it to be a success. This year was really special because Baptist College celebrated its 25th Anniversary. Our staff tried to capture some of the moments of the year. A very special thanks goes to Jan Wiles, our advisor, who put in so much of her time and skills. Without her, the yearbook would not be possible. Thank you Lisa, for all your time and hard work. You really did a bang up job! I guess you'll never want to look at a computer again. To the other staff members; David, who never stopped working, thanks again for your time and input. Audra and Holly, you really had some strange working hours. Audra, thanks for all those ad sales. You did a great job. Holly, maybe we can get you some pills for your darkroom phobia. Thank you for a great job. Chip, we are glad you're interested in sports. Thanks again for everything. Jennifer, thanks a lot for your time and your great memory. Maurice and Kandice, thank you for the work you did. It was really appreciated. I hope each and everyone of you find something special in this yearbook. Congratulations Seniors on a job well done! Baptist College, this is for you!

Sincerely,
Lori Sauls

Colophon

The 24th edition of Baptist College's Cutlass was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks in Montgomery, Alabama. Press run was 1200 copies.
Paper stock is 80-pound Calais. Endsheets are EX-1-Colortext white with HJ navy blue 281 printing.

The cover is a flint base material with navy blue silkscreen print applied and features a silver metalay of the College seal.

Candid and feature photos were shot by student publication photographers. The Chapel photo on page 14 was taken by Wilson Baker. Class portraits were taken by Yearbook Associates of Miller Falls, Mass.

The Cutlass staff extends special thanks to the public relations office and sports information office for their assistance.
